

1993 Round 6 Sunday 18th April Sydney Football Stadium

South Sydney 18 def. Western Suburbs 12

Fullback	Andrew LEEDS
Wing	Darren WILLIS
Centre	Brad HUGHES
Centre	Terry HILL
Wing	Mark BELL
Five-eighth	Steve GEORGALLIS
Half	Jason TAYLOR
Lock	Jason LIDDEN
Second Row	Stephen KEARNEY
Second Row	Andrew WILLIS
Front Row	David GILLESPIE (c)
Hooker	Joe THOMAS
Front Row	Matt RYAN
Replacement	Jason ALCHIN
Replacement	Wayne SIMONDS
	Wing Centre Centre Wing Five-eighth Half Lock Second Row Second Row Front Row Hooker Front Row Replacement

Tries Manoa THOMPSON

Craig FIELD

Darren BROWN

Michael ANDREWS

Goals Craig FIELD (3) Jason TAYLOR (2)

Match Description

Western Suburbs: Full-back: A Leeds; three-quarters: M Bell, B Hughes, T Hill, D Willis; five-eighth: S Georgallis; half: J Taylor; forwards: J Lidden, S Kearney, A Willis, D Gillespie (c), J Thomas, M Ryan

Replacement

Justin DOOLEY

Terry HILL Mark BELL

South Sydney: Full-back: R Maybon; three-quarters: D Schott, B Patterson, M Thompson, J Minto; five-eighth: T Horan; half: C Field; forwards: M Fuller, J Donougher, M Andrews (c), M Lyons, S Garlick, P Johnston Referee: G West (Daily Telegraph 19th April 1993)

Souths are back. The team which brought you heart-attack football last year has regained the form that fills fans with palpitations. The thrill of victory is never the same for Souths unless they first step into the lion's den. Or, as yesterday, run the risk of being pecked to death by Magpies. As for Wests, well, they are simply suicidal. Yesterday was a nice day for football. But not a day for nice football. Wests appeared to have control after the first half which saw glimpses of quality from Terry Hill and a do-as-you-please effort from Jason Taylor. If it had not been for a freakish bounce just before half-time Wests would have led 12-2 and that would probably have been enough. Instead, Craig Field's kick over the top eluded intended receiver Rod Maybon and bounced into Field's arms. The certainty with which the ball seemed destined to bounce for Maybon was illustrated by the fact that three Wess' defenders were converging on him which, as it turned out, left Field free to scamper 40m. Earlier, the ball eluded Maybon with somewhat different results. This time it was Taylor's chip-kick and when Maybon turned to chase at the 30m he fell over, allowing Bell to run through and gather for a neat try. Maybon obviously had the ball de-magnetised at halftime. From that moment he was seen frequently clutching it to his bosom with great effect. He's only a little bloke but fellas with less ticker have played for Australia. Field's converted try had a remarkable effect. Wests had been playing enterprising football, throwing the ball around like Souths did last year - even to the stage where they mimicked the intercept pass. And to exaggerate the sense of déjà vu, Souths even dropped the ball a lot like last year. And their best attacking weapon looked to be hope. For a long time, the game appeared to be disappearing into a sunset of mistakes and other atrocities, the most common being the dropped ball. But, inspired by Maybon, Souths never gave up even though there were only 10 more minutes on the clock. In those final moments Manoa Thompson and Michael Andrews used the dummy to great effect to score tries. Thompson, whose football could be compared to a Rolls Royce engine (he has a lot of trouble warming up but look out when he accelerates), is used to scoring the odd try. But Andrews, according to Souths' boss Terry Parker, "last scored a try when we were 100 Pipers." What? Parker was forced to explain: "The last time Michael Andrews scored we were sponsored by 100 Pipers." Oh. On the other side of the tunnel, Wokka blamed the weight of mistakes for yet another disappointment. "We are playing like a bottom-ofthe-table team - which we are," he said. Aware of the stiff deterrent to even objectively evaluating a referee's performance, Wokka said: "Well, I wouldn't give him 10 out of 10." No, the referee was no Nadia Comaneci. (The Daily Telegraph Mirror 19th April 1993)

Notes: Wests clearly looked the better side in the first half, but only led 12-8 at half-time. However, in the second half, Souths had a glut of possession and Wests played like a bottom-of-the-ladder team, dropping the ball on numerous occasions, dropped balls that led to Souths' tries. Five losses in a row and Wests seemed to be out of the semi race. Brad Hughes made his debut in the centres.